SOL DE MAYO

from Finca Los Almos, Mendoza, Argentina

Sol de Mayo, translated as the 'Sun of May', is a representation of the Inca sun god Inti and relates to the Argentine Revolution of May 1810. The wine is produced by Finca Los Almos from their vineyards in Mendoza in the foothills of the Andes Mountains. The winery has 225 hectares with old vines dating back 60 years. Due to the high altitude and low humidity of the region, the vines are rarely affected by pests or disease so that little or no pesticides are used. Coupled with modern winemaking techniques these are wines that have plenty of flavour and show good varietal character. Both wines are great value - even before our £1 a bottle discount!
